AUSTRALIA WINS TRANS TASMAN TEST SERIES

Welcome

SQUASH WA
WEBSITE

What a fabulous month of squash! From the 2nd to the 13th of September it was non stop Masters action. That fortnight was then followed by the Vic Park Open and Country Week teams.

Congratulations to all our new champions especially Sue Hillier who continues to dominate her age group (O60). Ray Vilarroya won the O85 age group. WA players won 9 Graded events.

An awesome effort by the Aussies who recorded a clean sweep against the Kiwis in the Trans Tasman Test Series. Tim Cowell and Sue Hillier did their State proud.

Sue won all her 3 matches 3-0 whilst Tim had some fierce 5 setters winning one and getting pipped in the 2nd. In fact both matches against the same opponent saw 92 points recorded twice!

The first test match saw Tim recover from 1-2 down to get up 12-10 in the fifth (11-9, 4-11, 9-11, 11-4, 12-10) whilst the second test saw Tim get off to a strong start but eventually run out of gas (11-9, 11-8, 8-11, 5-11, 7-11). Then Tim and his opponent Matt Nation reached the semi finals of the Over 35 Australian Individual Championships. In the end they both lost to Singapore's Marcus Phua ... Tim in the semi and Matt in the final.

Congratulations to David Ilich, Matthew Sanders and Brendan Ward for winning Division 1 in the Teams Championships. 5 other WA teams also enjoyed success.

The Vic Open saw a familiar face win the Open. Mike Corren just keeps on keeping on! We will cover the Country Team Championships next month.

with Leigh Kaye

We all know various other sports have junior programs such as 'Hot Shots' (tennis) or 'Net Set Go' (netball), well we are thrilled to now have 'Squash Stars' for squash!

The Squash Stars program is being launched as we speak, with information sessions being delivered across the country. Squash Australia will be working with all states and territories, who will in turn work with clubs, to get Squash Stars into as many of them as possible. The program features eight session plans to cover a school term, with videos on how to deliver each session, and the best part of all of it, is that a Level 1 coach is no longer a necessity! Ask your club about Squash Stars or click here: <https://www.squashstars.com.au/clubs-and-centres>.

Whilst we say a HUGE thank you again to Serena for her blood, sweat and tears over the years, we welcome Rheannin Sherrick to the team. Rheannin is new to squash but not to sports administration or high performance - read more further down.

Due to the change from calendar year to financial year, we've needed to change the date of the next Annual General Meeting of the association. The 2025-2026 AGM will take place on Wednesday 12 November 2025, for which all documentation has been circulated as per the timeline outlined in the Constitution. We would love all our member clubs to support our sport by attending the AGM, and require at least one delegate from each for voting purposes. More are welcome to attend however each club can only vote once, and via the delegate. Please register via the AGM via Revo here: <https://www.revolutionise.com.au/squashwa/events/316300>.

The Stars Gala Awards evening will also move to February due to office staff changes and the excessively busy time of year. It was originally scheduled for the Saturday evening of the WA Closed, however this is no longer the case.

The Australian Masters Squash Championships were held at the beginning of September along with the Trans-Tasman Test Series between Australia and New Zealand. Not only did Australia win all three Tests, but WA also performed well in the main event, with Ray Villarroya taking out the Men's 80+ and Sue Hillier the Ladies 60+ once again.

The new format was well received and the increase in attendance in both the individuals and the teams events speaks to this. A sincere and heartfelt thanks and appreciation go to the AMAZING committee that spent all of eight months pulling this all together. It was honestly a pleasure working with everyone. (See next page for a photo of the steering committee).

I swapped my General Manager hat for my Coach hat on the 26 September when I flew out with the WA State Junior Team to Ballarat, Victoria for the Australian Junior Championships. 25 kids, three coaches and two carers met at the Qantas Terminal at 4.45am, complete with tired eyes and plenty of yawns.

Behind the Scenes

with Leigh Kaye

The well-behaved, black and gold-clad team stuck together as one as we made our way to Melbourne, travelled by bus to Ballarat (1.5 hours), then by van to our accommodation, a further 20 minutes away.

After a LONG first day, we were all exhausted and ready for bed, as you can imagine!

Five of our WA juniors made it through to the semi-finals, of which Hannah Slyth was the only winner on the day to move through to the finals.

The other four amazing players in Miranda Clarke, Domenic Christou, Vera Bruce and Isla Harris, pushed their opponents as hard as they could, but all fell short in huge five-setters.

Well done to all our juniors for their efforts so far. Teams start on Thursday and we are looking forward to playing in both Div 1 and Div 2.

Welcome Rheannin

Meet our new Engagement Officer Rheannin Sherrick! Rheannin has hit the ground running and getting stuck into all things squash, bringing with her years of experience in sport and high performance. We asked Rheannin to tell us a bit about herself so help the squash community get to know her.

"I grew up in Mandurah and am now married with two wonderful kids, aged 11 and 13. My husband recently retired from the United States Marine Corps, and together we spent 17 years living in both Japan and the U.S., moving every three years and calling seven different houses home.

Sport has always been a huge part of my life. I'm a former WAIS athlete, an Australian representative in hockey, and I had the incredible opportunity to play professionally overseas for the Coca-Cola Red Sparks in Hiroshima, Japan.

Outside of sport, I enjoy binge-watching TV, walking my dog, and collecting crystals. I'm also proud to be a dual American and Australian citizen.

In this new role, I'm excited to learn a new sport and be surrounded by hardworking, passionate athletes."

Please make Rheannin feel welcome, and introduce yourself when you see her at events and such.

43rd Australian Masters Squash Championships and Trans-Tasman Test Series

This year it was WA's turn to host the Australian Masters Squash Championship. The Championships were played from 2 to 13 September at Squashworld Mirrabooka. The format was changed this year to have a 3-day Individual Championships held over Friday, Saturday and Sunday, followed by the Teams event from Tuesday to Saturday.

It was also Australia's turn to host the Bi-Annual Trans-Tasman Series, which involved three test matches held around the Individual Championships. We therefore ended up with 12 days of intense competition.

We kicked things off with the first two Trans-Tasman Test matches on Tuesday 2 and Wednesday 3 September. Australia came out on top in both tests 11 matches to 3, then 10 matches to 4, although a number of the matches were very close.

“Australia came out on top in both tests 11 matches to 3, then 10 matches to 4, although a number of the matches were very close.”

The matches were streamed through Squash WA's YouTube channel and can be watched using the links on the championships website. The third test was played on the Monday following the Individual Championships and while Australia was again victorious by 8 matches to 6, a number of close matches went to 5 sets. This meant Australia won back the Vic Belsham Shield.

The Individual Championships started on Friday 5 September and with over 600 matches over 3 days, the courts were full at all times and competitors were required to play until 8:30 on the Friday night. There were a number of overseas players from New Zealand, Canada, Malaysia and Singapore.

There were over 320 players with good draws in most Open age groups. Titles were won by players from Australia, New Zealand and Singapore. There was an informal function on the Sunday evening at Mirrabooka with about 150 people staying to celebrate, and catch up with old friends and make new ones.

The Teams event ran from Tuesday 9 to Saturday 13 September. There were about 330 players in 109 teams playing in 19 Divisions. We were able to fit all the matches into Squashworld Mirrabooka with one court free at all time slots. There were a number of very serious matches between old acquaintances followed by some serious catch-ups after.

An event like this doesn't come together without a lot of people doing a LOT of work. There were the usual helpers who always generously give their time, however there were also a number of new people who volunteered to help, and did anything they were asked. Thank you very much - you helped make this a very successful event.

“The Championships wound up with a Dinner Dance attended by 350 players and supporters.”

The Championships wound up with a Dinner Dance attended by 350 players and supporters at the Perth Convention and Exhibition Centre on the Saturday Night. The Band 'Dirty Little Secret', played a great range of music that had the dance floor full from the time they started playing.

thanks Tournament Director Roger Campbell

Many of the players have attended a great deal of championship with badges presented for up to 40 years attendance.

I would like to thank our sponsors: The City of Stirling, WA State Government, Baileys, ECG Engineering, 74 Islands, and Fremantle Steel Group. Without sponsors it wouldn't be possible to run an event of this size. Costs, especially relating to functions, continue to increase, so sponsor support lets us keep prices as reasonable as possible.

Mirrabooka Squash Club's Junior Sub-committee provided a canteen over the full 12 days to keep everyone fueled. I think the bacon and egg rolls on the weekend mornings were a hit.

"We had about 320 players in the Individuals and over 340 players in 19 Divisions in the Teams event."

Finally, to the players and supporters, THANK YOU to those who came from interstate, and to the WA players that joined in. We had about 320 players in the Individuals and over 340 players in 19 Divisions in the Teams event. We are lucky to have Squashworld Mirrabooka with 14 glass-back courts, which enabled us to run the whole event at one venue which helps to create an amazing atmosphere. Kane, Simmo and Tyron do a fantastic job running the centre and are a Tournament Director's dream.

Visit the official tournament website to access results, photos, and much more.

Refereeing - Let's Play Fair

18

with Neil Butler

Introduction to the Squash Rules

Squash is played in a confined space, often at high speed. Two principles are essential for orderly play:

- Safety: Players must always place safety first and not take any action that could endanger the opponent.
- Fair play: Players must respect the Officials and the opponent and play with honesty.

The rules are not only for referees but also for players.

How many can put their hand on their heart and say "I have read the rules"?

Unlike many other sports, all players in squash are required to either Referee or Mark in a competition match. Sometimes you are lucky enough to have a qualified Referee to do this for you, however, for the majority of League, Pennant and tournament matches you will be required to carry out the duties of either the Referee or the Marker.

How many of us (me included) will watch an AFL game and make decisions based on gained knowledge from fellow spectators, commentators, possibly ex-players, without having read the rules?

How often do you hear a commentator say that they disagree with a decision, particularly a technical decision, only to come back later and say the umpire or referee was correct?

Most squash players learn the rules through just playing the game. Some knowledge is gained through discussions after a match over a beer.

To make sure the two principles stated above are carried out there is an obligation on players to read and understand the rules of the game. To achieve a fair outcome of a match the Referee and Marker must have their obligations under the rules of the game.

"To make sure the principles of SAFETY and FAIR PLAY are carried out, there is an obligation on players to read and understand the rules of the game."

This does not mean you have to sit exams or qualify as a Referee but to occasionally read the rules or ask questions until you are convinced one way or the other that you understand certain situations that occur on the squash court.

My interest in the rules started very early on when I was playing in a tournament and I thought I knew the rules, having never read them, and the referee was making decisions that I disagreed with. After the match I went and bought a rule book and found out that the referee was correct.

When I finished reading the rules I found the referee's name in the back of the book as being part of the group that had developed the rules - so I guess he was right!

Question of the Month

John's protective eyewear drops to the floor during a rally without any collision having taken place with his opponent Mary. What should the Referee do?

- a) Allow play to continue.
- b) Stop play and award a stroke to Mary.
- c) Allow play to continue if John picks up the eyewear immediately.

The answer is revealed on the back page

Quote for the Month

Winners never blame anybody. It's only losers who try to blame other people for what went wrong. So never con yourself that your failures, and your weaknesses, are someone else's fault.

This month we are featuring another one of our wonderful sponsors: ECG Engineering! ECG Engineering are a genuinely community-minded business who have supported a number of events at state and club level, and most recently supported the Australian Masters Squash Championships last month.

If you've ever been involved in running an event, then you'll know that they just aren't possible without the generous people in the community that are helping our sport to grow. THANK YOU SO MUCH to everyone at ECG Engineering. You are worth your weight in gold!

Now let's get to know ECG Engineering. We caught up with Business Systems Manager Stephen Traverso, who gave us a great insight into the how, what, why and when of the business ...and what a lovely guy!!

Tell us about the when, how and why of ECG Engineering's beginnings.

ECG Engineering was founded in 2014 right here in Perth, Western Australia. Our founders, Geoff Bailey and Mike Le Cerf, established the business after recognising an opportunity to create a homegrown engineering firm that delivers high-quality electrical and automation solutions for large-scale projects in the mining and energy sectors.

There was room for a WA-based team capable of providing world-class expertise in electrical design and controls, combined with local knowledge and personalised service (Geoff Bailey and team have been involved in the local WA market and globally for over 35 years). The vision was to innovate with integrity in partnership, a principle that later became our corporate value, by bringing advanced engineering expertise to projects both locally and for clients worldwide.

"The vision was to innovate with integrity in partnership, a principle that later became our corporate value"

2. Who is your target audience/client?

Our clients are primarily companies in the mining, resources, and energy sectors. In plain terms, we work with organisations that run mines, power stations, processing plants, and similar large-scale operations. If it's a heavy industry project that needs electrical engineering or automation expertise, that's right up our alley. While we're based in Welshpool, WA, many of our clients have global operations, so we often end up supporting projects not only in Western Australia but also in Africa, North America, and other regions (e.g., our team has supported mining projects in countries like Burkina Faso, Ghana, and Canada, as well as all over Australia) This mix of local roots and international reach means we understand Perth's industry culture and also bring a worldwide perspective to our work.

3. What's the best way for people to contact you?

The best way to reach us is to drop us an email or give us a call; we're always happy to chat. You can email info@ecg-engineering.com or call our Perth office at (08) 6164 3400. We also have a contact form on our website (www.ecg-engineering.com) if that's more convenient for you. Whether it's about a potential project or to learn more about what we do, we'll make sure the right person at ECG gets back to you.

(Our office address, for those interested, is 2-10 Adams Drive, Welshpool, WA, but probably an email or call is easiest to start with!)

some of our engineers and staff in their element. These site photos (above) give a glimpse into the type of engineering work we do. These visuals should help everyone see who we are: real people behind the company, working together on exciting projects.

On a community note, we're proud to be involved beyond just work. For instance, our own Fiona Whooley (below, far right) from the Perth office recently represented us at the Australian Masters Squash Championships, and we love supporting events like this: we truly value teamwork, whether on the job or on the squash court!

ECG Engineering is excited to be part of the Squash WA community, and we hope this gives you a good snapshot of who we are. If you have any further questions, please don't hesitate to reach out.

Thanks for the opportunity to share our story – we can't wait to see the Sponsor Spotlight!

WHAT SCHOOL STAFF AND EVENT ORGANISERS HAVE TO SAY...

The sessions were fantastic and highly engaging for our students. They enjoyed the activities the squash coaches delivered and they were developmentally appropriate so every child experienced success.

I just wanted to touch base to let you know how well received the squash clinic was yesterday. The few kids I spoke to at the end of the day said that was their favourite part (especially loved the inflatable structure!) and the staff all said your coaches were amazing. We're very excited to have you back in for future programs!

-Curtin University Carnaby Kids School Holiday Program

The coach was friendly, inclusive and knowledgeable about squash. Some students in the school had special needs and didn't want to be involved at a whole class level so he was able to set them up with a different activity and worked 1 to 1 with them while the rest of the class were involved in the inflatable activity. He then came around to help those students in the inflatable activity. He had a really good rapport with the students and they responded well to his instruction. He made some of the activities harder and more challenging and the older students really enjoyed this. Overall the students had a great time, they had lots of fun and were excited to be given a wristband to redeem free court hire so they could play squash with their friends and family in the holidays.

The coaches were very motivating and engaging at our school sport expo held at HBF Arena. All students participated with enjoyment and a number of them have since looked to take up squash!

Investing in Grassroots Squash: Building the Future of the Sport

Guest Writer: Level 2 Coach and Level 1 Coach Assessor Paul Kershaw

In every successful sport, the strongest foundation lies not in the elite ranks but at the grassroots level. Squash is no exception. If we want to see thriving courts, strong junior participation, and future champions representing clubs, states, and nations, the focus must be on grassroots investment and junior development.

Why Grassroots Matter

Grassroots squash is the entry point for the next generation. It is where children first pick up a racquet, learn the thrill of hitting a clean shot, and experience the camaraderie of sport. Without this base, squash risks becoming a sport that only serves a small, dwindling group of players.

*“Investing in juniors isn't just about producing professionals
- it's about building a lifelong love for the game.”*

From a club perspective, juniors who fall in love with the sport often bring their families with them, creating a ripple effect of membership growth and community engagement.

Building the Pathway

A strong junior program needs to balance two complementary streams:

- Recreational Development – Entry-level programs focused on fun, inclusivity, and physical literacy. These sessions welcome players of all abilities and emphasise enjoyment to encourage long-term participation.
- Performance Development – Pathways for juniors who want to compete, with structured training, access to tournaments, and quality coaching. These programs must remain flexible, giving both early and late developers the chance to progress.

When both streams operate side by side, squash builds the depth it needs to sustain itself. Recreational players create culture and numbers, while performance players inspire others and raise the profile of the sport.

Coaching and Culture

Coaches are central to this process. Skilled, passionate coaches who know how to balance technical development with fun, are essential for keeping juniors engaged. Investment in coaching education, mentoring, and professional support should be a priority for every club and governing body.

*“Squash will never develop if too many people are in it only for their own gain
- chasing positions, prestige, or personal benefit. When egos take priority over players, the sport stagnates.”*

But beyond technical expertise, the culture of the sport matters just as much as the coaching. Sustainable progress comes when decisions are made with players, families, and the long-term health of the sport at the forefront.

The Wider Benefits

The benefits of junior squash extend far beyond the court:

- Personal Growth: Young athletes develop confidence, resilience, and teamwork skills.
- Community Impact: Clubs with vibrant junior programs attract families, strengthen membership, and remain sustainable.
- Visibility: Juniors engaging through schools and local competitions raise the sport's profile.

Tips for a Successful Junior Program

Start simple: Fun drills and mini-games build confidence and enjoyment.

1. Engage families: Encourage parents to get involved and support.
2. Offer variety: Mix skills with fitness and match play to keep interest high.
3. Create pathways: Give ambitious juniors a chance to compete.
4. Celebrate success: Recognise effort and improvement, not just results.

Professional Responsibility

For coaches, administrators, and club leaders, investing in grassroots squash is not just an opportunity—it is a professional responsibility. Every decision made at junior level shapes the future of the game. Leaders who prioritise pathways, culture, and development create environments where players want to stay and grow.

A Call to Action

Squash is at a crossroads. To remain strong, clubs and associations must invest in the players of tomorrow by:

- Partnering with schools and community groups to reach new players.
- Designing engaging, age-appropriate junior programs.
- Supporting coaches with training and recognition.
- Fostering a culture where the sport, not self-interest, comes first.

“The juniors stepping on court now will be the leaders, coaches, and lifelong members of tomorrow.”

Grassroots squash is not just about filling courts today - it's about building a sustainable future.

Our task is to ensure juniors inherit a sport worth belonging to.

Thank you & Good Bye

Well after 115 editions of the SWAN (9 years and 7 months) I will be handing the production of the monthly newsletter over to Serena Richardson.

Serena is well equipped to take the SWAN to exciting new levels and I wish her every success. We have worked well together over a number of years and I have always admired her creativity and energy.

I have thoroughly enjoyed bringing you the SWAN each month. I hope you have found each edition informative, positive and extensive.

I created Squash Media in 2014 and have produced well over 300 publications. I have always loved the game and my parting words are these:

Keep creating new & exciting promotional strategies. Embrace new ideas and be positive about change.

Promote events and opportunities.

Recognise people's achievements and

Thank coaches, referees and volunteers
